Chickens Go Soaring.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Chickens sold at 19c a pound on the South Water street market today. This is the highest price ever recorded here in the history of the trade. John Foley, a veteran trader said:

"The scarreity of chickens this year has been the talk of the trade. The only reason for the shortage of the supply that I can see is the high price of eggs. "Poultry raisers evidently think it is folly to market the heo that lays the golden egg. However, buyers seem almost as eager to take hold at the 19c level as if prices were normal around 12c or 13c."

SALT LAKE MARKET QUOTATIONS

For the first time in the history of the local produce market housewives had to pay $1 each for mushrooms Thursday. Thursday morning a supply of the largest mushrooms ever seen on the local market was brought into town. They were raised on the other side of the Jordan river and the largest of them weighed two pounds each. Some of them weighed two pounds each. Some of them were as much as nine inches in diameter. They retailed at 50 cents a pound, thus a two-pound mushroom cost $1.

Quotations were steady on the local produce market Thursday, few changes being reported, and those were of a minor character. Quotations follow:
